Can the right airline really make that much difference to the enjoyment of your vacation? Well, of course it can make a world of difference. When you pick an airline that gets you to your destination without the unpleasantness of other airlines you'll have only good memories of time spent on the airplane. That's not the only way Caribbean airlines can help but it will get you off to a good start.

Caribbean Airlines, first of all, does everything it can to minimize its environmental footprint. For all the CO2 that the airline produces, it goes out of its way to save an equal amount somewhere else.

They are committed to carbon offsetting as a policy. If you're concerned that flying is causing harm to the environment, you can be reassured that this airline is doing everything it can to reduce these problems. This will appeal to anyone who's interested in traveling to the Caribbean in an environmentally friendly way, as every action you take in this way contributes to the good of the planet. The exclusive in-flight magazine, Caribbean Beats is another of the ways the airline can make your vacation better. This magazine includes a lot of great information on things to do and places to see while in the islands. This calendar can point you in the direction of local traditions that are fun to explore while on vacation. This magazine can be quite helpful when you want to avoid the hassle of guided tours but want the same experiences.

If you want to receive even more benefits by flying with Caribbean Airlines, you should join the Caribbean Miles program. Caribbean Airlines gives you the opportunity to exchange Caribbean Miles points for many valuable rewards, including simplified check-in and boarding, upgrades, free flights and the ability to alter your dates with no penalties. While it may not seem like much if you only fly once in a while, if you take many trips to the Caribbean, you'll find that these points can bring you many advantages.
