

Published based on Experience Convenience With A United States Passport Card ID

Experience Convenience With A United States Passport Card ID

A pass port card id is a convenient way to travel across borders frequently without the need to carry a bulky passport book or have to refill pages ever again. The card is wallet sized and can be used by anyone traveling to Mexico, Canada, Bermuda or the Caribbean. The card, however, is not good for any type of international travel that requires air travel.

This slim line passport device is a great alternative to standard passports for people who live on or near the Mexican or Canadian border and travel back and forth to the United States. The cards have a radio frequency ID chip, otherwise known as an RFID, installed in the card. Border patrol agents are specially trained to read information on the chip that is connected to a database that contains the cardholders passport information.

The radio frequency ID is safe because there is no personal information about the cardholder on it. Only border personnel who have the skills and permission to read the database information are allowed access. The card comes with a blocking sleeve to keep it from being damaged or being scanned when no one is using it.

The US passport id card can be available for any legal American citizen regardless of whether or not they have ever had a passport. Travelers can get a passport when they fill out the necessary application, a DS-11 and turn it in ID and photos along with it. If the person already has a passport, they can get the card only at a discounted rate.

Fees for these cards are much lower than those for a standard passport. The regular card for an adult applying for the first time is a mere $45.00 as compared to the $100.00 fee for a passport book and for minors under 16 years of age it is only $35.00. Those individuals that already hold a valid passport only will be charged a nominal $20.00 fee when applying to receive the card.

These cards last for the same length of time as a passport. Adult cards are valid for ten years from their issue date and minors cards are good for 5 years. The cards do not need to be updated during the entire lifespan of the card. This makes them very convenient as they can be placed in the wallet and carried all the time.

While people can apply for cards by mail, they will not get them any faster through rush delivery methods. New cards are only sent to cardholders by way of first class mail. If cardholders want to get their cards as soon as possible, they need to choose another method to get their card during the preferred time frame.

Private passport agency vendors are available on the Internet that can help people obtain a United States passport card id faster. Online providers know how to navigate through the passport process quickly and issue the card in a day or two with an added cost for speedy delivery. The additional fee in on top of any other costs the government receives for passport costs.

You can also find this article published on Experience Convenience With A United States Passport Card ID